QEII Health Sciences Centre Foundation

The QEII Foundation inspires generosity to advance health care at the QEII Health Sciences Centre. With financial support from all levels of the community, the QEII Foundation helps fund new technologies, medical research, innovation and professional education that contribute to life-changing moments experienced every day by patients and their loved ones. By working together with people who share a vision of better health, the Foundation strengthens care delivered at the QEII, improving the health and lives of Atlantic Canadians.

QEII Health Sciences Centre

The QEII Health Sciences Centre takes care of Atlantic Canadians when they need it most. With 700 physicians, more than 7,000 staff and 1,200 volunteers, the QEII is the largest adult health sciences centre in Atlantic Canada.

The QEII serves as the specialized care centre for Atlantic Canada in areas such as heart health, cancer care, neurosurgery and organ transplantation. As the local community hospital for immediate care and emergency services, the QEII provides the most advanced care available today. It also is a leading medical research and teaching centre for tomorrow's healthcare professionals.

Improving health for our communities.

The QEII will always be here for you.

The QEII Health Sciences Centre is open 365 days a year to deliver the best care to you and your loved ones. And the QEII Foundation continues to work with our community of donors to advance patient care, improve facilities and enhance the research mission of the QEII.

In 2014-2015, the QEII Foundation raised $14.8-million to support care in all 10 buildings of the QEII. We celebrated the completion of our ambulatory campaign, with donors funding the evolution of outpatient care by helping to provide 27 more exam rooms and equipment to serve the 498,000 annual outpatient visits. We continued to support 25 per cent of all QEII capital equipment purchases - items such as patient monitoring systems, new surgical equipment and anesthesia machines.

These are just a few examples of the strength that philanthropy has in our community. This annual report highlights the impact donors made to the QEII this year - thanks to every one of you who supported one of our campaigns, attended an event or purchased a lottery ticket. Your support is felt across the QEII, by the more than one million patient visits.

Dealing with an injury. Watching a loved one cope with an illness. Or simply wanting to make a difference. These are just a few of the reasons donors were inspired to give to the QEII Foundation last year. It is a privilege to work with this community - those who continue to give back and ensure that the best health care is available to them and their loved ones.

Your support has made a tremendous impact on the lives of Atlantic Canadians. As we collaborate with the province on a shared vision for major change and advancement to QEII facilities, we look forward to working with you and continuing to shape the future of care at the QEII.

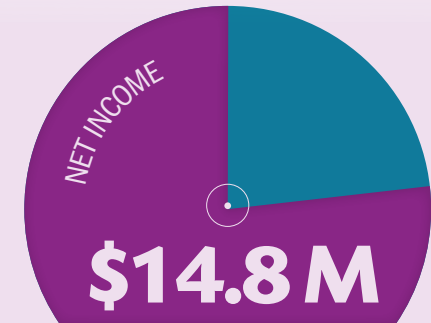

Thank you,

Together, we make great things happen.

Whether it was a simple item comforting a patient on their hardest day, or equipment needed for the latest cancer-related treatment, QEII Foundation supporters were there every step of the way. And while we could fill every page with the impact made, here are just a few examples of how your generosity made a difference in the lives of Atlantic Canadian patients and the staff of the QEII.

$825,000

The QEII is now home to one of the most impressive automated lab track systems in North America that processes blood and other specimens.

“ I went to the

happiest place on earth to celebrate

how lucky I am.”

Pancreatic cancer survivor Kelly Power completed her first full marathon in Disney in January 2015 to mark her five year anniversary of overcoming the odds against pancreatic cancer. Sending love and support from home was her family cheering squad, complete with her daughter and pre-school son Patrick Mark, named after her QEII physician, Dr. Mark Walsh.

$1.4-M

Though pancreatic cancer is the fourth most common cause of cancer death in Canada, it is largely considered an under-funded and hard to treat cancer. The five year survival rate is just eight per cent.

This is why the QEII Foundation teamed up with the Canadian Cancer Society and Craig's Cause Pancreatic Cancer Society to make a big impact in improving survival rates and treatment. Together this partnership and the many donors it represents contributed $1.4-million to pancreatic cancer research - the most significant single contribution ever from Atlantic Canada.

Annually, the QEII Foundation continues to fund endowed research chairs to advance patient care in areas such as joint mobility, cardiovascular outcomes, breast cancer, population cancer, and transplantation.

Endowed chairs exist in perpetuity

Opportunities to discover new treatment options

Researchers devote their time and focus to solve medical mysteries

Supporting research initiatives to bridge scientific discovery and breast cancer treatment for patients.

In Nova Scotia, one in nine women will face a breast cancer diagnosis and every second day a Nova Scotia family loses someone to the disease. This year, the QEII Foundation celebrated a grant of $1.5-million from the Breast Cancer Society of Canada.

- Increasing the survival rate for breast cancer patients
- Keeping families together, longer

$1.5-M

1,200

There are 1,200 active QEII research projects transforming health care in our region.

The QEII's Atlantic Clinical Cancer Research Unit (ACCRU) is one group involved in coordinating trials. Many trials are underway simultaneously, across all cancer specialities. The Hill family invested in these trials with a gift to the QEII Foundation. "My husband received excellent care at the QEII and as a result, I was inspired to give," says Margaret Hill. "Without clinical trial research, none of the important advances in cancer treatment would reach patients and their families."

- Discovering new treatment options
- Advancing care across all cancer specialities

13

Translating Research into Care (TRIC) grants were awarded to teams of researchers and administrators.

These projects are aimed at supporting positive changes for health care in areas such as emergency care, cancer care, rehabilitation and frailty.

- Improving patient outcomes
- Reducing wait times
- Improving access to care

Research finds cures, uncovers new treatments and changes the delivery of health care.

Today's discoveries become tomorrow's cures. In addition to the stories above, in 2014-2015, donors to the QEII Foundation helped fund research and education initiatives in areas such as:

- Arthroplasty
- Cardiology
- Cystic Fibrosis
- Electrophysiology
- Mental Health
- Population Cancer
- Orthopaedics
- Transplantation

“ I want to do something meaningful that will help other families.

I have arranged a gift in my will

to the QEII Foundation for ALS patient care.”

After leaving India with only $50 in his pocket, Surinder Sarwal settled in Halifax in 1965. As he faced his own healthcare challenges, Surinder made his first gift to the QEII Foundation 10 years ago. He wanted to help ensure the QEII was there when his family needed it. And they did need it. Saroj, his wife of 46 years, was diagnosed with ALS and passed away in February 2014. Today, Surinder is planning for the future of all Atlantic Canadians by leaving a gift in his will to the QEII Foundation.

Many people are moved to leave a gift to the QEII Foundation in their will. When they talk about their planned gift, these donors often share stories about the excellent care they or a loved one received at the QEII. Arranging a gift in their will helps ensure the care is available for future generations of Atlantic Canadians, if and when they need it.

Estate gifts, both large and small, amounted to more than $500,000 in 2014-2015.

- Areas of greatest need
- Cancer treatment and research
- Comfort and care
- Haematology
- Palliative care
- The Rehabilitation Centre
- The Veterans Memorial Building
- The Veterans Memorial Garden
